About

Hailing from the vibrant heart of New York City, Abby Dormer is a singer-songwriter who offers solace and connection through her soothing, tender harmonies. Her music reverberates with the influence of the iconic female folk musicians of the '60s and '70s, conveying narratives sculpted by the passage of time and the distinctive light that propels us forward.

Brought up on the coastal edge of New Jersey, Abby's musical palette was nurtured by an eclectic mix of artists from the Grateful Dead to Judy Garland. Her musical journey commenced with piano lessons at the tender age of four, laying the foundation for a lifelong devotion to her craft.

Abby later expanded her repertoire, independently mastering the acoustic guitar, mandolin, and the Irish bouzouki. This blossomed from her profound affection for Celtic traditional music. Reflective of an old soul, Abby's music weaves a tapestry of yesteryears, yet it firmly establishes its roots in the present. Through her lyrical artistry, Abby Dormer bridges the past and present, inviting listeners to join her in this timeless musical journey.

Abby's song "Fig Tree" has been featured on notable platforms such as RAWRadio UK, Radio WigWam, and Glad You're Here.

Her debut EP 'Apologue' will be released on June 9, 2023
